Trailers vs. classrooms controversy ends

Bay school board votes to use interim facility

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Municipal School District Board has dropped its plans to sue the city of Bay St. Louis and purchase classroom trailers for kindergarten.

The board has voted instead to use a temporary classroom facility and to pursue a long-range building plan.

In a meeting overseen by two uniformed police officers and about 100 spectators, the board voted two to one for three measures regarding kindergarten.

The measures included authorizing cancellation of an order for classroom trailers; directing Superintendent Roger Oge to find suitable temporary facilities for kindergarten; and directing Board Attorney Lucien Gex to suspend action on a proposed suit against the city of Bay St. Louis for seven days, then to drop the suit if the city releases $350,000 earmarked for new construction.

The city council had refused to release the money for purchase of trailers, contending that installation of trailers did not constitute enough construction to be consistent with the council's advertised intent for use of the funds.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. said late Friday that the paperwork pertaining to release of the funds is in progress.

In all three votes, Board member Cyril Glover made the motion and Board President Betty Diboll seconded. Both voted for all three measures, while Linda Penrose voted against all three.

Board Member L.D. Carter is attending the State Police Training Academy in Jackson and was absent from the meeting. Also absent was Board Member Reginald Robinson.

The vote was preceded by a statement by Diboll and followed by statements from members of the audience and from Penrose.

Diboll explained that the board's decision was based on the fact that the district is presently operating at 100 percent capacity per classroom. She said either the purchase of trailers or a permanent kindergarten building would be "a stop-gap measure, a temporary solution when viewed with the district's overall growth."

The board president said the long-range building program was delayed for several reasons, including uncertainty over whether or not school districts would be ordered to consolidate or implement kindergarten.

In addition, county bond issues including a recent one for construction of a new jail delayed any possible school bond issue.

She added that recent legislative action had also made it easier for school districts to obtain funding.

Oge said he was pleased to see the board work out the matter of whether to purchase trailers or build a permanent facility.

"I'm proud, really proud, to be part of a school system and two great cities which deal with reason and prudence in the interests of our youngest children," he said.

Most of the spectators who commented expressed agreement with the board's decision Wednesday, but some remained dissatisfied.

Michael Cuevas called for the resignations of the three Bay St. Louis appointees and the board attorney.

"This sue-the-city issue has been so outrageous that the only pleasure the board can expect from the public is displeasure," she added.

Others, like Robert Breeden Jr.

and Charles Benvenuti, departed from prepared remarks to show their agreement with the board.

"Let's look at this positively and

READYING FOR SEARCH—Gail Nami, left, of Hancock County Dive Rescue, lugs diving equipment Saturday afternoon to a raft being readied by Hancock Deputy Sheriff Jim Odom, right, and Waveland Patrolman Jimmy Varnell. Nami and Bill Pepperman, Hancock Dive Rescue members, were heading to an area approximately one-half mile offshore from the Gulfside Methodist Assembly to search for a possible drowning victim. The group was joined by Bureau of Marine Resources officers and volunteers who were searching for a boy approximately 14 years old who had reportedly drowned earlier while swimming with a group. CONCERNED—A group gathers by rescue units as they try to learn the fate of a boy feared to be a drowning victim Saturday afternoon offshore from the Gulfside Methodist Assembly. Police were told the youth went down while swimming with other boys about one-half mile from shore. Hancock County Sheriff's deputies, Waveland patrolmen, Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet, Bureau of Marine Resource officers, Hancock County Dive Rescue members and volunteers were searching for the body. Police were told the youth went down in the vicinity of an area known as 'the hole' where over 20 persons have drowned in recent years. The fate of the possible drowning victim was not known at press time. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Hancock school board delays roof decision

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board has decided to delay accepting a bid on permanent repairs for the roof of Hancock North Central School.

Two bids were received and opened Saturday but were taken under advisement until Monday night's meeting.

Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph said he could not recommend that the board accept one of the bids because he feels working on the roof would disrupt classes after school resumes in August.

The bids gave working times of 100 calendar days and 120 calendar days. Accepting either one would result in extending the work past the beginning of the fall term.

Board President Billie Faye Lyons suggested that the worst damage should be repaired and the rest should be delayed.

Randolph said doing the worst section could be most disruptive because it involves removal of old insulation.

Board Member Tommy Shaw agreed that the work should be delayed until next summer.

"It should have been done this summer," Shaw commented.

Lyons explained after the meeting that the work had been delayed because the architect preparing the specifications, Fred Wagner, was also working on another school project, a classroom building at Gulfview Elementary School.

Randolph said the other work could have resulted in the delay but did not confirm the reason.

The Monday meeting will be 6:30 p.m. in the board room of the superintendent's offices at Stennis Airport.

In other business Saturday, the board heard a report on an ongoing energy conservation project being financed by federal grants.

Henry Sanford, a Power Management and Control, Inc., consultant presently under contract to the Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation, said he has been working with the Hancock County district and other school districts throughout the state on conservation grant projects.

Sanford said an energy-saving sensor system that provides automatic control of heating and cooling systems has been installed in the main building at Hancock North Central.

More efficient lighting has been installed in the gymnasium at Gulfview and similar work has been scheduled for the Hancock North Central gymnasium.

Sanford's proposals for future improvements include converting much of the electrical equipment in the Hancock North Central cafeteria kitchen to operate on propane gas.

Planned discussions of the 1986-87 budget and 16th Section land lease renegotiations have also been rescheduled for Monday.

Board member Penrose resigns position as attorney's secretary

BY DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Member Linda Penrose has resigned her position as secretary to the board's attorney.

Penrose said Friday that the resignation was her own decision and actually had nothing to do with the fact that her former employer, Lucien Gex, is attorney for the school board.

She said she is "retiring from full-time work and planning to work freelance" doing temporary jobs like filling in for vacationing legal secretaries.

Penrose explained that her work was causing her to spend too much time away from her family.

"I was just in too many things," she said.

Some of Penrose's other political activities include serving as secretary for the Waveland Zoning Board and head of the Waveland Redistricting Committee. She is also an officer of the Hancock-Harrison County Legal Secretaries' Association.

"My kids come first. I also plan to spend more time on school board-related activities, since that's part of what I do for my kids," she explained.

Penrose said she wishes to dispel rumors that her resignation may have been linked to an investigation concerning the ethical implications of a board attorney's secretary serving on the same board.

"I had cleared up the ethics question before I even took office. Up to the time I submitted my resignation, I also abstained from voting on any matter involving Lucien," she said. She was not fired by Gex, Penrose added.

She said a "very upset person" came to visit her at Gex's office Thursday and wanted to know if she had actually been fired "for the little speech I made at the board meeting."

"THOU SHALT NOT COMMIT ADULTERY"

Down through the centuries of time the sin of adultery has been in the world. It has raised its ugly head to cause heartache in many a husband or wife.

It has caused many a child to grow up without a father or mother. Adultery has brought in many a stranger as a step-father or step-mother.

Instead of working to make a good home, far too many have allowed the selfishness of momentary pleasure to destroy it. Many attribute the blessings of our modern society as the cause.

The desire to have things may build a selfish heart. However one is what he has been taught. Without Biblical teaching, there is no spirituality. There is no basis upon which to build a stable home. As long as the only rule is fleshly desire of the moment, family destruction will be the result.

The sordid condition has been fed by the idea it is alright for people to engage in sex before marriage. Paul wrote, "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers..." (1 Cor. 6:9) The two words also are distinguished in Matt. 15:19 and Mark 7:21.

Fornication applies to all illicit sex. Adultery applies when the spouse of another is involved in illicit sex. Therefore it is sinful to engage in premarital sex.

What is God's plan for marriage? In the beginning God saw the loneliness of the man he had created. "And the Lord God said, it is not good for man to be alone; I will make a help meet for him." (Gen. 2:18)

Man needed companionship but he needed a helper suited to his needs. The husband and wife relationship is to be closer than the relationship between parents and children. Therefore God said, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." (Gen. 2:24 and Matt. 19:46) Jesus restated this principle and added, "...What therefore God hath joined together, let man not put asunder." (Matt. 19:6)

When a man and a woman stand before a minister, family, and friends, they promise to be faithful and true companions as long as both shall live. Beside companionship, the man and his wife were commanded to bring children into the world. (Gen. 1:28). This is the only arrangement God has endorsed to procreate mankind.

Selfishness in many matters contribute to the demise of the home today. In spite of the fact God condemns adultery, it is a large factor in the destruction of homes. Paul states, "For the woman which hath a husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband." (Rom. 7:2)

Jesus says, "...Whosoever shall put away his wife, and marry another committeth adultery against her: And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery." (Mk. 10:11-12)

Repentance is a necessary requirement to remedy sin. After Paul had listed a number of sins including adultery, he said, "And such WERE SOME OF YOU: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, and by the Spirit of our God." (1 Cor. 6:11) They had changed their state and become Christians.

May we plead with you. If you are in sin, do not wait too long to comply with God's will.

Five-year-old's courage in facing disability merits 'Medal of Honor'

RUARK MURPHY PLAYS JAZZ SOLO ON 7-UP BOTTLE

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

Frequently recognized and rewarded is the spontaneous courage exhibited in a crisis—the personal quality attributed to the heroes of the land.

But less often recognized and more rarely rewarded is the kind of courage which makes it possible for an individual to face each new day with enthusiasm in spite of an apparently insurmountable burden.

And those who build monuments and pin on medals are even less likely to discover that wealth of courage in a five-year-old boy.

Such a hero ended a brief visit to Bay St. Louis yesterday and returned to his home in South Carolina, but not before spreading his special brand of joy and love among those he touched while here.

Ruark Deverell Murphy, born June 17, 1981 in New Orleans, La., has spent 75 percent of his short life in hospitals and doctors' offices.

In a little more than five years he has gone under the surgeon's knife eight times, and spent countless hours on dialysis machines or enduring various blood purification procedures.

Several Hancock County residents helped with the medical expenses of a kidney transplant on Sept. 16, 1985.

But that radical procedure was not destined to be the solution to Ruark's problems. By December he was suffering from viral meningitis, and in April the inserted kidney shut down—rejected by his otherwise vibrant young body.

Without an explanation of the boy's medical history from his mother, Kathleen Murphy, no one would detect he had ever had a problem.

With a permanent catheter and chemical dialysis bag hidden under his clothes, Ruark charges about his environment, alternately charming or terrorizing all who cross his path, much like any other five-year-old.

Mrs. Murphy said a congenital blockage in the boy's urinary system caused growth of cysts at the urethral valve at seven months of age and subsequent loss of his kidneys.

But that handicap will not stop the irrepressible little Murphy from entering public kindergarten in August at Lexington Elementary School near his home on Victorian Lakes, S.C., where his father, Mark Murphy, is working temporarily.

And Ruark will probably arouse the curiosity of his classmates with a 'show-and-tell' on the special apparatus he wears to make up for the missing kidneys.

But more importantly, Ruark is likely to infuse his classmates with a measure of his special brand of joie de vivre which is hard to fathom in one so young.

He is likely to share with his new friends at Livingston Elementary that wealth of love and affection he distributes so generously on a daily basis to all he encounters.

Ruark Murphy, at five, displays an energy and joy of living seldom achieved by adults, approaching every day as though even at his young age he is aware that life can be short and is best lived enthusiastically one day at a time.

He trusts everyone, and approaches everyone—child and adult alike—as though they have always been his best friend.

Helen (Mrs. Gordon) Rohrbacher, Ruark's grandmother who lives in Bay St. Louis, insists Ruark is not spoiled and doesn't get any attention from granny which is not also given in equal measure to all the grandchildren.

But her friends in Bay St. Louis say there is a spring in her step and a glint in her eye when the time approaches for one of Ruark's brief visits to the Gulf Coast.

Maybe she also knows one day at a time with Ruark is worth 1,000 without him.

Japanese delegation visits the Coast

After arriving Saturday morning at the Jackson County airport, they met with representatives from the Harrison County Development Commission, the Jackson County Economic Development District and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

A tour bus took them through Bayou Casotte Industries, Ingalls Shipbuilding, Sunplex Industrial Park and the Bayou Bernard Industrial Park.

Following the bus tour, the delegation toured the Gulfport Harbor and the coastline by boat to their final destination at the Broadwater Beach Hotel.

Members of the Japanese delegation included Peter Sato, economic minister of the Embassy of Japan, Washington, D.C.; Hiroshi Katsumi, vice consul, Consulate General of Japan, New Orleans, La.; Akimasa Sano, general manager, Japan Iron and Steel Exporters Association.

Also, Tokuji Teramura, representative of the Bank of Tokyo, Atlanta, Ga.; and Hiroshi Usui, chief representative of ZENCHU—Central Union of Agricultural Cooperative.

Following a briefing and video film presentation late Saturday afternoon, the delegation spent a few hours of leisure time on the Coast, followed by dinner in the main dining room of the Hancock Bank, Gulfport, hosted by Bank President Leo Seal.

Parents may want to remember the Annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club's Kids Fishing Rodeo, which will be held next Saturday.

The rodeo headquarters will be at the American Legion Veterans Memorial Pier at the intersection of Beach Boulevard and Washington Street in Bay St. Louis.

Admission is free with registration from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. Scales will close at 5 p.m.

Club members emphasized that catfish and stingrays will not be accepted.

The rodeo is open to youngsters age 13 and under and will have trophies and prizes for the largest fish in several categories.

For the younger children, there will be a special crab division.

All fish must be caught on the day of the rodeo. Special prizes will be offered at the end of the rodeo with names being drawn from registrants.

Many of the prizes are being donated by local businesses.

The Sportsman's Club will also give a free coke and hot dog to all registrants.

We know the community's youngsters have had a good time at the previous fishing rodeos given by the organization and are hoping many parents will join their children in the fun.

We hope everyone will catch the 'big one'.

We wish William (Bill) Johnson well in the position of general maintenance superintendent for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, which he assumes on August 1.

Johnson will oversee county road and bridge projects in all of the county's districts as part of the implementation of the county unit system.

We have known Johnson for many years and feel he will do a fine job at his new position.

The unit system will be new for Hancock County and it will take the cooperation of many people for it to work.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

ENFORCEMENT NOT DAMAGED BY PATROL RETIREMENTS

The Mississippi Highway Patrol is continuing its efforts at making our state highways safe for citizens and tourists.

Despite the retirement of more than 100 officers and staff members of the Highway Patrol, Public Safety Commissioner James L. Roberts has assured me that the patrol will continue in force to enforce our laws regarding driving under the influence, speeding, and reckless driving.

In addition, the patrol will still be available to assist any motorists needing help on the state highways.

Commissioner Roberts is planning a cadet school to train new patrolmen and, in fact, plans several new schools during 1987.

Each patrol school graduates 30 to 35 new patrolmen for our force. The promise of new patrolmen, trained in the most up-to-date technologies and techniques, has created a mood of optimism at the patrol.

Today some 450 Highway Patrolmen are on the road, just as many as were on the road one year ago, despite the retirements on July 1. In addition, the patrol operates a program through the Governor's Highway Safety Program that puts more than $500,000 into the Highway Patrol annually to assist counties and cities with DUIs and enforcement of the speed limit.

This program, for example, provided $18,000 during the July 4th holiday to fund 1,900 additional Highway Patrol hours so additional personnel could be called back into duty during the dangerous holiday weekend, which has become the third highest fatality holiday in Mississippi.

Officials at the Highway Patrol have worked very hard to insure that the retirements have not endangered the people of Mississippi. Many of the retirements have come in the ranks of supervisory personnel or headquarters staff, instead of on-the-road patrolmen.

The Highway Patrol is a good example of an agency that is dealing professionally and realistically with our state's tight budget situation without hampering the services expected by our citizens.

THE DRUG CRISIS

Last month two promising young athletes lost their lives to cocaine overdoses. Nothing more poignantly illustrates the tragedy of the illegal drug problem than the useless deaths of sports figures whose lives have been dedicated to the proper training of their bodies to achieve their full performance potential.

In the aftermath of these losses, the bottom line is clear. We cannot fight an effective drug war on one front. We cannot be successful against drugs through a series of ad hoc actions aimed just at responding to each new drug problem as it comes along. We must have a comprehensive strategy to attack illicit drug production and trafficking abroad and reduce demand at home, as well as improve domestic enforcement and interdiction.

I recently had the opportunity to discuss the need for such a strategy with Elliott Abrams, the Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs. That is the division within the State Department responsible for monitoring Western Hemisphere countries, including South America, Mexico and the Caribbean Islands.

There is no question in my mind that there are some countries that with the tacit approval of their governments are poisoning our society with their production of narcotic crops and the smuggling of these drugs into the United States.

We are not putting enough pressure on some of our allies in South America—Peru and Colombia in particular—to halt drug trafficking. For instance, in return for providing foreign assistance to Peru to support its law enforcement network, Peru committed to the U.S. to take a specific number of narcotic crop acres of production. Peru took the money, all right, but kept almost all its crops.

If countries like Peru are going to continue to condone the illegal drug industry within their borders and the poisoning of our citizens—particularly our young people—we must take direct, strong, immediate action including cutting off all foreign aid.

But the news is not all bad. We are convincing some countries to cooperate in destroying narcotics crops and jailing drug growers.

Ironically, one sign of the success of our efforts to interdict drugs in the Caribbean is the shift by drug traffickers to Mexico as a route into the U.S., particularly for cocaine smuggling.

One undeniable aspect of the drug crisis which cannot be overlooked is the demand and consumption in our own country. Latin and South American countries are selling drugs in the U.S. because our citizens are buying them.

Part of the problem is eradicating the plants on the ground in the countries where they are being grown. We have the technology to do that from the air, but the hard part is getting the needed cooperation from the countries involved. Part of the problem is intercepting the traffickers bringing the drugs into our country. And, part is our responsibility here in our own society to try to stop the demand.

That means guidance in the home, better education and strict enforcement of drug laws within our schools and stiffer laws with mandatory penalties and jail sentences.

During hearings last May, the Select Committee on narcotics asked federal law enforcement officials whether they could do a better job in reducing the availability of drugs in this country if their resources were doubled but if no reduction occurred in illicit drug production abroad or demand here at home. Not one of the agencies represented said yes.

It is evident that we will never be successful until we commit ourselves to a more comprehensive strategy that attacks the drug problem simultaneously on all fronts.

You Can Spare Your Back from Pain

Q-Sometimes after a long day at work I have painful backaches. What can I do to cope with this problem?

An estimated 20 million visits to physicians in the U.S. each year are prompted by back pain. Nearly everyone at one point in his life complains of backaches and related problems. These problems often are resolved with conservative treatment, but they can become recurrent.

The spine-part of the body's support structure - consists of 33 bones. The spinal cord is surrounded by the spine and the nerves are located between the vertebrae, of which all but the last nine are separated by collagen disks.

Pain can occur along any part of the spine, especially if a disk ruptures and presses on spinal nerves.

It most commonly occurs in the lower back. This pain is referred to as sciatica and is felt most keenly in the leg.

The spine in the lower back region is supported by a complex of muscles and ligaments, including those of the abdomen.

Strong, supporting muscles have been shown to be protective against spine injury and pain.

The process of strengthening back muscles can begin with attention to posture, both while standing and sitting.

One of the easiest ways to protect your back is to sit correctly, especially if your work requires long periods of sitting.

The normal posture of the lower back is a slight forward curve, and the curved area often is referred to as the small of the back.

A person should sit in a chair so the small of the back can be pressed against the back of the chair. The feet should be flat on the floor and your knees at hip height.

Any office chair that hugs the small of your back is not only comfortable, but is an aid to good posture, as well.

When standing for long periods, it helps to keep the pelvis tilted back to avoid a swayback, or lordosis, which exaggerates the natural curve in the lower back.

High-heeled shoes and a protruding abdomen tend to promote lordosis.

The lower back can be supported to avoid an aching back when standing, by placing one foot on a stool or other object about four to six inches off the floor.

Waking from a night's sleep can be a painful experience if one's mattress doesn't provide sufficient back support. Sleeping on one side with your legs slightly bent is far better than on your stomach, a position that places stress on the back.

Treatment of back pain should be considered only after careful evaluation by a physician. A diagnosis of the problem and its cause can eliminate unnecessary, and often expensive, procedures and care.

Back pain is often a result of soft-tissue injuries, especially in younger adults. X-rays won't reveal the injured muscle or ligaments.

Treatment for this and other acute back pain includes complete bed rest, aspirin, and heat applied to the painful area.

The physician may prescribe temporary muscle relaxants and painkillers for patients with severe, restricting pain.

Surgery for chronic symptoms may be suggested but only after all other available therapies have been exhausted.

Some patients find the nonsurgical techniques such as biofeedback and muscle relaxation exercises are effective. Learning how to do these exercises properly is important to gain maximum benefit.

The development of strength and flexibility to muscles in the back and abdomen can help to prevent the occurrence and recurrence of back problems.

go forward as we have tonight," Breeden said.

Benvenuti said he feels the board has lost the trust of the public.

He emphasized the need for the board to communicate effectively with the public in the future and asked that Policy 18, which requires that speakers at board meetings be included on the agenda, be changed. Some advised caution.

"As a parent of a child entering kindergarten, I am appalled at what we have had to go through in front of our children's eyes. It should never happen again. Let's give our children the kind of school they deserve," Donna Gibson said.

Robert Seaton said he feels Policy 18 is not the one which needs the most consideration.

"Of greater importance is Policy One, which states that all actions should be for the good of the children and that personal opinions should go to the background. It warrants more than lip service," Seaton said.

In a nine-page typed statement Penrose read to the board and spectators, she chastised both board and city council members.

"I am appalled that a member of this board who has publicly denounced the conduct of the mayor and council members of the City of Bay St. Louis has compromised him or herself," she said.

"Why would a certain board member change positions after meeting with certain members of the council...I was told that before discussion was had with these council members that these council members had planned to make a motion to recall the three board members appointed by the City of Bay St. Louis."

"Do they think that if these board members do not execute all of their wishes they can recall them? This indicates to me that a condition exists in city government which the citizens should know about."

Penrose also questioned the ethical implications of votes by Councilman-at-large Wilmer Seymour on matters pertaining to the school district, since Seymour is employed as athletic director at Bay Senior High School.

She also questioned a group of citizens allegedly organized to represent the city's interest in school board matters.

According to Penrose, the group allegedly recruited people to attend board meetings to falsely indicate a high public interest in issues, although most of those attending neither have children nor pay school district taxes.

In addition, she alleged that they organized telephone harassment of board members, particularly one they felt would be likely to change position; bombarded local newspapers with letters and telephone calls; and misrepresented trailer classrooms to make them sound bad even though some of their children had attended class in trailers as late as the 1985-86 term.

She did not specifically name any of these people.

She went into detail concerning the disadvantages of sharing classrooms with other programs at an interim facility and reported on the purchase of trailers by other school districts, pointing out that Jackson bought 57 classrooms.

"I have listened to the recommendations of James Baldree as kindergarten coordinator and I have listened to the threat and directions of the mayor and city council. In my opinion, Mr. Baldree knows more about the kindergarten program than the city of Bay St. Louis..." she concluded.

In other business, the board approved Penrose's motion that Oge' look into the purchase of St. Rose de Lima School in addition to its use as an interim facility.

Oge' was also authorized to look into the existing long-range building program to see if it needs to be updated.

The board meets again at 7 p.m. Monday but is not expected to discuss the St. Rose purchase or the updating of the long-range plan, Oge' said Wednesday.

Diamondhead man injured in wreck

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Diamondhead resident has been injured in a one-vehicle crash.

Jerome P. Gelin, 43, of 414 High Point Drive was taken to Hancock General Hospital after his vehicle ran off a county road in Diamondhead and hit a tree shortly before 11 p.m., Wednesday, Sheriff Ronald Peterson said.

Gelin was treated for lacerations and held 24 hours for observation of head trauma and released, Hospital Community Relations Director Mary Perkins said Saturday.

Gelin was driving a 1982 Datsun 200SX pick-up truck.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation by deputies Leo Ladner and Albert Biehl.

I-10 wreck injures Gulfport man Friday

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Gulfport resident has been injured in a two-car crash on Interstate-10 in Hancock County about two miles east of Highway 607.

According to a spokesman for the Mississippi Highway Patrol in Gulfport, the accident occurred Friday night near the 7-mile marker.

The injured driver was Joseph A. Davis of Gulfport, whose vehicle, a 1977 Toyota collided with the rear end of a 1973 Cadillac driven by Rufus Boykin of M.

Boykin's vehicle was apparently parked beside the road when the accident occurred.

Davis was admitted to Hancock General Hospital with head trauma and possible eye injury. He remained under observation Saturday and is listed in good condition, according to Mary Perkins, Hancock General Hospital Community Relations Director.

The cause of the accident has not yet been determined. State Trooper Curtis Newman is investigating the collision.

Federally Employed Women

The Bayou Chapter of Federally Employed Women's Installation Dinner was held the night of June 21 at the Landmark Restaurant.

Monsignor James McGough from Our Lady of the Gulf Church gave the invocation. The Pledge of Allegiance was read by Marion "Mitzie" Clough of NAVOCEANO.

Marge Chrissinger, of NORDA, introduced Penny Dunn, Section Head of the Surveys Section of the Hydrographic Division at NAVOCEANO, who was the guest speaker. She gave a motivating speech on "Where She Has Been, (starting as a GS-2 with the government), Where She Is Now (as a GM-13), and Where She Is Going".

Portia Harris, NORDA, installed officers for 1986-87, including Margo Frommeyer of NORDA, president; Marion Clough, of NAVOCEANO, vice president of programs; Adrienne "Peggy" Haeger of NAVOCEANO, vice president of membership; Helen Youngmans of NAVOCEANO, recording secretary; Martha Knott of NORDA, corresponding secretary; Leslie Sivak of NAVOCEANO, treasurer; and Maryellen Turcotte, of NORDA, historian.

Margaret "Marge" Chrissinger, outgoing president, was awarded a plaque for her efforts as the Bayou Chapter's president from 1984-86.

Margo Frommeyer, new president, closed the ceremonies by stating that her top priority goal for the year was to increase the Bayou Chapter's membership.

She reminded the group that FEW was the only Women's Group at NSTL that all women, both Federal and contractors, can actively participate in as members.

"With many talented women at NSTL, let's share our talents (and our uniqueness) by networking and being supportive of one another instead of being cut off in our own small work areas, Frommeyer said.

"I have been in FEW for seven years now, and I don't think of it quite as much as a national chapter anymore, I think of it as a supportive sisterhood. We all pull for one another and I'm hoping our family will grow this year!"

Membership forms can be obtained from all FEW officers, and the yearly dues have been reduced to $20.

St. Vincent De Paul Fair slated in Waveland

Conviction on sixth DUI charge brings $1,000 fine, weekend duty

Hancock County Justice Court Judge Joe Dobson sentenced George Anderson Jr. of Waveland to three months of weekend community service, fined him $1,000 and suspended his drivers license after Anderson recently was found guilty of driving under the influence.

The latest charge stemming from June 20 accident on Lower Bay Road in which Anderson was involved is the sixth DUI citation Anderson has received.

In May 1984, in a Circuit Court trial, Anderson was found innocent of manslaughter in the death of Amanda B. Carter, who died in a July 1982 accident on the Bay Bridge.

Anderson, who admitted during the trial that he had been drinking, was driving the car that struck Mrs.

Carter's car. She and her passenger, Mary Blanchette, were thrown from the car, and Mrs. Carter was run over by an oncoming vehicle.

The law at that time required evidence of "willful and wanton disregard for life" to obtain a manslaughter conviction.

On Monday, Dobson, after handing down a guilty verdict, ordered Anderson to serve each Saturday and Sunday for three months in the county jail and to pay a $1,000 fine and court costs.

Homemaker adapts with ease to councilman job

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The resurfacing of Felicity and Esplanade underway at this time is the latest improvement in Bay St. Louis' Ward 1 which can be credited to the persistence of the city's first woman elected official, Lisa LeBon Cowand.

Being councilman has become a time-consuming, "more than full-time job" for the former homemaker who took office just over one year ago.

Cowand has switched from planning menus to planning street paving projects and timetables for drainage system repairs.

"My first year has been a real eye-opener as far as learning more about the nuts and bolts of the system and I believe this will be an unending learning process," she said.

"But I now have a much better understanding of the system and everything

"pothole-free" status area residents experienced earlier this year.

In April, Cowand and Beat 3 County Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner in a joint venture saw that every pothole in the ward's paved streets was patched.

"I really appreciate Supervisor Ladner for his assistance in making so many improvements in the ward possible," she said.

Ladner has also participated in many other improvement projects in the area recently, including drainage work in Hancock Heights, funding for extension of Pine Street, rebuilding of Dunbar Avenue Pier, street repairs on Cedar Ridge Road, Pogo Street and Engman Avenue.

"Cowand has done a fantastic job of coordinating improvement efforts in Ward 1 between the city and county," Ladner said.

"She is very conscientious and is doing a super job," he said.

Ladner also said the people of Ward 1 were very fortunate to have a councilman of such caliber.

Other projects Cowand has played a part in getting completed are new gas lines on North Beach Boulevard, organizing neighborhood watch programs and ordinances dealing with trees in the city, noise and the use of city vehicles.

In addition, there are many projects she is currently working on to further improve situations in Ward 1.

Among these are drainage problems.

"I hope to see the drainage system on Boardman and Leonhard avenues really improved," she said.

"We are getting into the stormy season and some residents on these streets will be unable to get out of their driveways," Cowand said.

"I understand why the situation exists but we must get something done about it," she said.

Cowand added she hopes to see a maintenance program for the city's entire drainage system soon.

Cowand says she is "urgently seeking" to find a remedy for the dangerous traffic situation at the intersection of US-90 and Dunbar Avenue caused by the congestion of traffic entering this highly commercial district.

"We need more turning lanes, signals or any other traffic control methods that will help alleviate the situation," she said.

Other future goals include getting sidewalks on Dunbar Avenue for students walking to North Bay Elementary School and an animal-control ordinance, on which she is currently working.

"I would also like to see complete city utility services extended into the annexed area, particularly in the Cedar Point area where some residents have been patiently waiting for more than a decade," she said.

Bay Mayor Victor Franckiewicz says Cowand spends a lot of time at being a council member.

While the other council members have full-time jobs in the professional field, Cowand works at being a councilman full-time, he said.

"I think an interesting comparison between the way Cowand and the other council members handle things is the passionate concern she has with individual's problems in the ward no matter how small the issue," Franckiewicz said.

Cowand really works hard for her district, he added.

"Although sometimes she seems to think she is pestering me, usually when she comes up with a concern it is a valid one," Franckiewicz stated.

All councilmen are equally intense for their wards but when Cowand asks for something she birdogs people until it is completed, he said.

"It has been interesting to watch how fast she learned how to deal with problems in the district," Franckiewicz added.

Franckiewicz said he never thought about dealing with Cowand differently from the way he deals with the other councilmen because she is a woman.

"Because of my Southern traditional upbringing I may be slightly less blunt with her than the others," he said.

There has been no hint of Cowand using the fact that she is a woman to get things accomplished, Franckiewicz confirmed.

Cowand said there has been no trouble in working with the all-male council.

The council is made up of a wide variety of personalities, she added.

"Although we have our differences, we keep in mind the common denominator of the welfare of the city and are generally able to reach acceptable decisions," she said.

"We (the council) have a good rapport and are able to speak our minds without holding a grudge," she said.

Cowand believes she may have been able to gain the respect of some of the people who were wary of the idea of a woman on the city council.

Cowand said her husband Norman and children, twins Norman and Brian age 5, and Lawren, 4, had concerns about her new job at first but have since adapted to her new duties and responsibilities.

"All of this would have been for nothing without the support of my biggest critic, Norman," she added.

"My initial concern when Lisa decided to run for the office was whether she knew what she was getting into and would she be committed to it," Norman Cowand said.

"There is no way I can tell you how proud I am of her and the commitment which has been evident from the beginning of the campaign through her day-to-day handling of the job," he added.

Cowand also said he believes she has gained much respect from her constituents and co-workers.

An example of this is her recent election as president of the city council, he added.

"I am proud of the way she has accepted the challenges which she has met with enthusiasm," he said.

"Lisa is not afraid to say what she believes and is constantly seeking insight from other people when she is unsure on an issue," he added.

"All in all the first year was anything but dull and if the next three years are as eventful, I believe the city will have had a successful administration," Cowand feels.

Ward 1 Councilman Lisa Cowand

I have learned has helped me to remedy situations more successfully," Cowand added.

According to Cowand, the first year has reflected some of what she expected but at the same time has also held many surprises.

"I had expected serving on the council to be a lot of hard work and very time consuming but what has come as a complete surprise is the frustration resulting from the limited scope of my official duties as a councilman," she explained.

"As I attempt to deal with everyday problems in my ward and in the city in general, I am constantly being reminded that I am over-stepping my authority or that I am delving into an area that is someone else's responsibility," she complains.

Although a councilman's duties are strictly legislative, Cowand says she finds learning about 'paving and potholes' challenging.

A day never passes in which a situation doesn't arise which warrants consideration, she added.

"I thrive on the daily grievances and input from all the people. It is impossible for me not to get involved when most of the problems are right at my doorstep," Cowand said.

Sometimes the only way to see that things get done is to "get down in the ditches," she added.

"I only wish that more could be accomplished in less time," she said.

To her credit, Cowand has been successful in many ventures for the improvement of Ward 1.

Included among these is the

ETV Brief

PERFORMANCE ENCORE

"Great Performances" presents an encore of the off-Broadway musical "Taking My Turn" at 9 p.m., Friday, July 18, on Mississippi ETV.

The lyrics of "Taking My Turn" are based on collected interviews with a number of people "in their prime": there's the teacher who can't cope with retirement; the crusty philosopher whose generous heart hides beneath a rough exterior; and the woman who used to march for causes—and still does.

The action begins in the springtime and ends the following spring. During this period, the eight characters, ages 50 to 80, meet, share confidences and celebrate living. Together they affirm that growing older can be both enjoyable and fulfilling.
